

BLOW UP

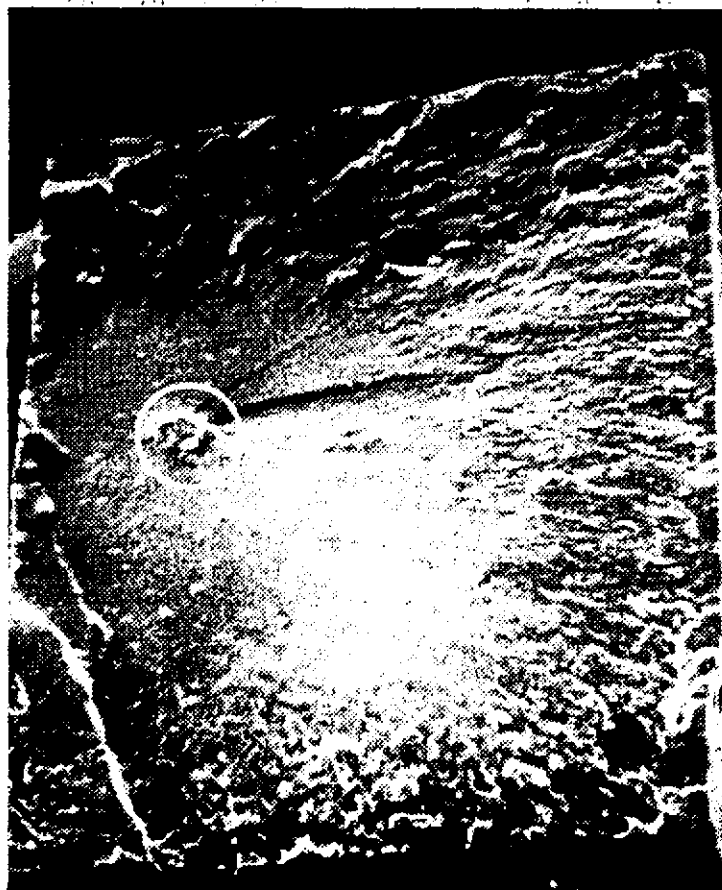

The scanning electron microscope (right) is a powerful new research tool. It makes enlarged surface photographs of solid samples such as rocks, synthetic polymers and fibers. It enables the scientist to discern physical details which provide him with new and valuable information. It is also convenient to operate, and its use is spreading to a variety of laboratories.

This type of microscope has a useful magnification ten times greater than the best optical microscopes, and a depth of focus about one hundred times greater. Because of this great depth of focus, a strikingly three dimensional effect is obtained in the pictures it produces. The accompanying photographs illustrate the microscope's powers, showing unusually detailed closeups of common objects.

The scientist seated on the right at his electron microscope takes photographs of the samples placed in the column at the left. He selects and focuses his pictures in the cathode ray tube in front of him at eye level. When he has found his desired field of view, the signals are switched to a second cathode ray tube (barely visible behind his head) where it is photographed by a camera. The camera makes both a positive black and white print, and negative film.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of the year when prediction is popular, when peering into the crystal ball is part of the fun of beginning a new year. It is harmless enough: If you guess right, you can say "I told you so," and if you are wrong, you can forget the whole thing. But prediction in the area of television is really quite easy simply because it really doesn't change much except in its external form from year to year.

This sage, for instance, fearlessly predicts that within the next 12 months the three television networks will be preoccupied by midwifing into existence a clutch of half-hour situation comedies about a beautiful widow and her bright, cute son. After all, the big hit of this season has been "Julia," about a beautiful widow with a bright cute son.

It is written here that all three networks will try to come up with variations on the "laugh-in" theme, and will proclaim each variation to be a "bold new concept in television entertainment."

Some network will bravely decide to drop one of those nightly two-hour movie reruns. Good old movies for TV are getting scarce and the public is not anywhere near as enamored of the lesser movies as it once was. The time will probably be filled with two half-hour situation comedies plus a one-hour variety show headlined by a very young singer with a Southern accent and a guitar.

A number of one-hour Westerns will be interred in TV's Boot Hill come spring while an equal number will be born next September. The heroes will change, but the scripts and the horses will look awfully familiar.

There will be numerous statements from the better-broadcast organizations decrying TV's excessive amount of violence. Network spokesmen will assert that they are being extra careful about that sort of thing—long fights and wholesale killings—but the regular viewers won't notice any real difference.

A show with low ratings but critical acclaim will be canceled and, immediately, there will be a well-organized protest with letters to the networks and to TV columnists and perhaps even some equally well-organized demonstrations before network headquarters. If the protest attracts much attention, it may even keep the show on the air—anyway, for a little while.

Established variety shows will try desperately to insert outrageous political commentary and the late evening conversation shows will try to steer the talk into daring areas in hopes of stimulating controversy or at least some publicity.

Approximately half the viewing audience will complain to friends that "whenever I like a show, they cancel it." The other half will confide that all they ever watch on TV are sports and the educational stations—but somehow are able to report the most recent plot turns to "Peyton Place" or the gags of Rowan and Martin.

HE'S EXCHANGING ONE APRON STRING FOR ANOTHER

Dear Helen: My daughter thinks she's dating a boy, but I think she is mothering him. She drives to his place and picks him up in her car. After the date, she takes him home, and then comes home alone, sometimes at 2:30 a.m.

I took her car away from her when I heard she let him drive it. He has no license. His parents won't let him use THEIR car.

Last night his mother brought him over here, and then she went along on their date. Maybe that's better than before, but is this normal for a boy of 19? I made some snappy statements which didn't go over well.

My daughter is very headstrong. She says she'll move out if I keep on "persecuting" her. She is 21 and has a job. The car is a gift from her father. Shall I keep it here until she comes to her senses?

— UNWANTED MOTHER

Dear Mother: Daughters wise up faster when mothers don't wise off about their choices. Give yours her head, the car, and your blessing, and you'll be surprised how soon she starts seeing Mama's boy as he really is. — H.

Dear Helen: You are so right when you say "Contact the Bureau of Vital Statistics before you consult a lawyer"—about a name change. They'll tell you whether you need legal aid or not.

My brother and his wife were married AFTER their baby arrived. At first they consulted a lawyer who said his fee would be $250. Then they went to the Vital Statistics office and were informed that in our state a natural father does not adopt his child. He only makes an affidavit and sends it to the State Capital. Then he receives a brand new birth record showing the natural father's name, and nothing to denote illegitimacy. The charge: $2.00 for the birth certificate, and a small amount to notarize the affidavit.

— GRANDMOTHER

Dear Helen: My natural father married my mother when I was three years old. They broke up before I was born, then got together later. They never tried to hide it from me, and I supposed the birth certificate was in order.

Both my parents are now dead. I didn't realize my birth certificate had only my mother's maiden name on it until an uncle died, leaving as his heir my father, or his heirs.

Now my sister, who was born after the marriage, says I have no right to inherit as I can't prove paternity. I guess money is thicker than blood. The sum is considerable. What shall I do? — S.F.T.

Dear S: Consult a lawyer. And hope that your sister has a change of heart.

I hope that others, reading your letter, will check over their legal papers. Often an error or an oversight can lead to big complications later on. — H.

SHOWBEAT

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

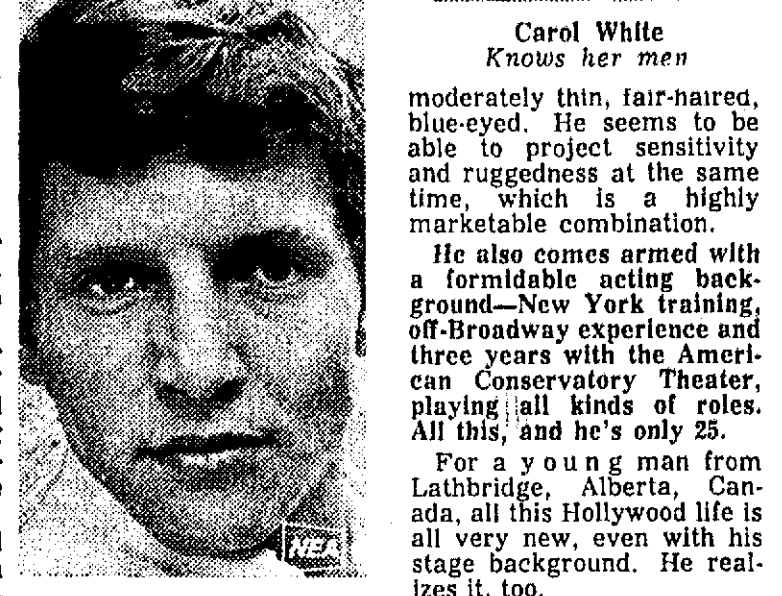

HOLLYWOOD—IN E A I— Time hangs heavy on the heroic hands of movie stars when they have to wait for the technicians to set up the next scene.

Exhibit A—on the set of Mark Robson's thriller, "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," things were at a standstill. The only people working were the crew, setting up the lights.

I found Carol White, the English girl who zipped to the top on the back of "Poor Cow," and Paul Burke in her dressing room. What were they doing? Playing ticktack-toe.

"She beats me all the time," Paul complained. "I'm good at chess, but I just can't play ticktacktoe."

Carol laughed. And she tried to get comfortable on the uncomfortable couch in her dressing room. It was slon networks will be preoccupied by midwifing into existence a clutch of half-hour situation comedies about a beautiful widow and her bright, cute son. stuffed made her a bit ungainly.

Carol and her children are staying in California for awhile, at least. She has another film due to start in January, and she is thinking of buying a house here and making this her home. Her two young sons like it here.

"I asked my 6-year-old," she said, "if he liked school in Los Angeles better than London, and he said he did. I asked him why, and he said, 'Because there are girls in the school here.' Just like a man, isn't it?"

The third star of "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting" is Scott Hylands, and he has a starring role in his very first film. Producer-director Robson is excited about Hylands.

"He is a new star," Robson says, without beating around the verbiage. "It's very exciting to see it happen—maybe it happens only once or twice in a director's lifetime."

"Scott reminds me of Michelangelo's statue of David."

The description is apt. Hylands is moderately tall,

But Little Change in Fashions

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The first of the spring fashions came in like a lamb, not like a lion, and women who want something new and different might wish for a little more roar on the racks.

By the end of the first full day of the New York Couture Group showing Thursday, the 200 fashion reporters who gathered in a Manhattan hotel for previews of next season's styles had seen little in the way of change.

The one message that all the ready-to-wear designers and manufacturers—whose collections ranged from a low of about $30 to a high of about $700—got across was the upcoming popularity of pleats.

There were tiny knife pleats on swirling skirts, short and long; side panel pleats to give skirts a smooth line and free moving fit; and even inverted back pleats topped by half belts.

Marie McCarthy, designing for the firm of Larry Aldrich, opened the afternoon session with a series of short and swiny dresses, many featuring either snug inset midriffs or belts.

"There is no one dominant fashion silhouette," said Aldrich in introducing the collection, adding that he was offered a variety of choices for a variety of women.

Most of the difference in the clothes came in detail, not basic shape however. One dress was gathered with a sash another with a belt. One had a side closing, another a front closing.

Among the highlights were a black and white silk dress with knife-pleated skirt topped by a stretched-out sleeveless orange overblouse, a red, blue, green and white paisley pants and tunic combination with a deeply plunging neck and a black silk faille dinner dress styled like an artist's smock—full with huge bow and low patch pockets.

Prices of the Aldrich collection ranged from about $175 to $500.

Davidow, long known for coats and suits, promised a "newer, younger feeling," but again, only the details were different. The high quality fabrics, simple and classic cut and easy silhouette remained—still good, but not really new.

In the lower price range, David Crystal showed numerous variations of his now-famous simple sport shirtwaist with a crocodile embroidered on the left breast.

Jaw Muscle Spasms Are of Two Types

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Remember Kukla and Ollie, the little wooden TV puppets? Open, close, open, close, flopped their jaws. Pull one string—open. Pull another string—close. The puppeteer's timing was perfect.

Suppose he goofed though and pulled both strings at the same time. What would happen? Little movement—much tension.

Think of your own jaw being manipulated by strings. Nerve "strings" sending brain signals to muscles which open and close the jaw, move it right and left, forward and back.

What happens when muscles that open, and muscles that close the jaw contract at the same time? Contract and don't relax? Little movement—much tension.

Normally, chewing muscles are perfectly coordinated. They're so well-behaved they obey our every command without resistance. They work so well we never give them a second thought. And how efficient. It's amazing what they can do. With a full complement of teeth in normal arrangement jaws can pulverize chicken bones, crack nuts, mince meat. What a beautiful "disposal" machine.

But when this delicate "computer" jaw mechanism jams—muscles become tense, uncontrolled, incapable of voluntary relaxation. They can't be told what to do.

Muscle spasms are of two main types—tonic and clonic. Tonic spasm is a consistent contraction; clonic is alternating contractions and relaxation, without control. Jaw muscle spasms are a major cause of hinge joint problems and associated ills. They throw the joint out of gear, and prevent normal opening and closing. They can produce symptoms many of you will recognize: pain in the joint area, limited motion, clicking and cracking, and neurological symptoms such as assorted aches and pains in the head and OLD BOATS litter the beach at Hafnarfjordur, Iceland, where Gretar Oddsson photographed this peaceful scene.

LOCKED IN, the steamer Philip R. Clarke was the first ship to use the new Poe Lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Reportedly the largest in the world, the lock is 1,200 feet long, 110 feet wide and 32 feet deep. Its construction makes possible the use of larger ships on the Great Lakes, first of which is scheduled for 1970. The 647-foot Clarke, part of U.S. Steel's fleet, literally was dwarfed in the massive lock.

Jaw Muscle Spasms Are of Two Types

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Remember Kukla and Ollie, the little wooden TV puppets? Open, close, open, close, flopped their jaws.
Pull one string—open. Pull another string—close. The puppeteer's timing was perfect.

Suppose he goofed though and pulled both strings at the same time. What would happen? Little movement—much tension.

Think of your own jaw being manipulated by strings.
Nerve "strings" sending brain signals to muscles which open and close the jaw, move it right and left,
forward and back.

What happens when muscles that open, and muscles that close the jaw contract at the same time?
Contract and don't relax?
Little movement—much tension.

Normally, chewing muscles are perfectly coordinated. They're so well-behaved they obey our every command without resistance.
They work so well we never give them a second thought.
And how efficient. It's amazing what they can do.
With a full complement of teeth in normal arrangement jaws can pulverize chicken bones, crack nuts, mince meat. What a beautiful "disposal" machine.

But when this delicate
"computer" jaw mechanism jams—muscles become tense, uncontrolled, incapable of voluntary relaxation.
They can't be told what to do.

Muscle spasms are of two main types—tonic and clonic.
Tonic spasm is a consistent contraction; clonic is alternating contractions and relaxation, without control.

Jaw muscle spasms are a major cause of hinge joint problems and associated ills.
They throw the joint out of gear, and prevent normal opening and closing. They can produce symptoms many of you will recognize: pain in the joint area, limited motion, clicking and cracking, and neurological symptoms such as assorted aches and pains in the head and

Razorbacks Rated No. 6 in Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's potent young Buckeyes, firmly entrenched atop the college football world after their Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California, looked forward today to a year... or possibly two... of continued dominance.

The Buckeyes, named national champions by a wide margin Friday in the final Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters, will return all but four of the 22 starters who paved the way to a 10-0 finish capped by a 27-16 conquest of then No. 2 Southern Cal.

Thirteen of the 22, including quarterback Rex Kern, are sophomores, making the future brighter than ever for Coach Woody Hayes.

Ohio State, which last won the national championship 15 years ago, received 44 of the 49 first place votes cast in the final AP ballot. The Buckeyes got 968 points, to 782 for runner-up Penn State, the only other unbeaten, untied major team.

The 11-0 Nittany Lions, who edged Kansas 15-14 in the Orange Bowl New Year's Night, moved up from the No. 3 spot they held in the next-to-last poll, conducted at the close of the regular season. Texas, 9-1 after trouncing Tennessee 36-13 in the Cotton Bowl, nailed the third spot, with Southern California, 9-1-1, falling to fourth.

Penn State and Texas each received two first place votes. Arkansas, which jumped from ninth to sixth place, behind Notre Dame, picked up one. Arkansas wound up 10-1, upsetting Georgia 16-2 in the Sugar Bowl, and Notre Dame, which didn't go to a bowl was 7-2-1. The Irish were seventh in the next-to-last poll.

Kansas, 9-2, Georgia, 8-1-2, Missouri, 8-3, and Purdue, 8-2, complete the final Top Ten. Kansas was No. 6, Georgia No. 4, Missouri No. 16 and Purdue 11th before the bowls.

Missouri made the big jump following an impressive 35-10 Gator Bowl victory over then 12th ranked Alabama, which slipped to No. 17. Tennessee and Oklahoma also dropped out of the Top Ten.

Fourteen of the Top Twenty in the last regular season poll played in bowl games and eight were beaten.

Southern Methodist and Louisiana State, unranked before upsetting Oklahoma and Florida State, respectively, in post-season scraps, moved up to Nos. 14 and 19.

The final AP poll was taken after the bowl games for the second time because of the summit showdown between Ohio State and Southern California and the fact that nine of the Top Ten teams had post-season games.

The final Top 20, with first-place vote in parentheses, season records, including bowl games, and total points. Points awarded for first 15 picks on basis of 20-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

Dallas Vs. Minnesota on Sunday

Ira Berkow NEA Sports Columnist

MIAMI (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry isn't sure what to expect from his Cowboys Sunday when they meet the Minnesota Vikings in the annual runner-up playoff of the National Football League.

Landry is just as curious as many people to see how his players react after their crushing defeat by Cleveland in the Eastern Conference championship game two weeks ago. The favored Cowboys bowed out of the championship picture 31-20. Landry said he had no doubts that his fine team would recover from the bruised ego suffered in the Cleveland game. "We'll recover in time. You have to recover in time. You have to recover in this business. It's really hard to say how the players feel. They seem in good spirits, which probably is a good sign they'll play well."

The Vikings, winners of the Central Division, also are playing and working. Coach Bud Grant, however, expressed confidence his team would play well Sunday. They played well in losing the Western title to Baltimore 24-14.

"I know were not going to be flat," said Grant. "There is far too much pride among the players to let themselves get down. They're too smart to let that happen."

Both teams report they are in good health.

Casper vs. Press: Lesson in Futility

By LEE MUELLER
NEA Sports Writer

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. — (NEA) — Billy Casper — says Frank Beard — is the best golfer in the world today.

Casper consistently drives the ball in the fairway, he consistently hits his second shot on the green and he consistently gets down in two. Good old consistent Billy.

"Nobody," says Casper, "gets excited about consistent old Billy, though. They just sort of take him for granted."

It should be pointed out, however, that nobody beats 37-year-old Billy, either. Sports writer-golfers with 14 handicaps in particular do not beat old Billy.

The other day, for instance, a New York press agent named Nat Fields—a friend of Casper's—staged a Billy Casper Meets the Press Tournament.

And since Fields handles publicity for La Costa Hotel and Country Club which has just spent $200,000 improving the golf course, it was not mere coincidence that the tournament was conducted here.

Made by men and money, La Costa rests like a plump, green grasshopper amid the rocky wastelands of Southern California. At approximately noon that day, 26 newsmen and Billy Casper attacked it with clubs and ball retrievers. There were cries of agony and golf courses do not cry.

Playing the last three holes with all the finesse of a farmer hoeing corn, I finished triple-bogey, bogey, bogey with Casper to lose my match by five shots and my face by untold thousands.

"Stay with it," said Casper as I slashed my drive off the 16th tee. If I had, I would have wound up in a ditch 30 yards left of the tee.

Still, there were lessons to be learned. Before the tournament, for instance, I never knew how it would feel to have Billy Casper tromping around in the rough looking for my ball. It didn't feel good.

"Here it is!" exclaimed Casper, stooping over. "It's a Lizard Special."

Lefty Driesell

By LEE MUELLER

NEA Sports Writer
DAVIDSON, N.C. — (NEA) — The three square banners do not flap. They just hang there, nailed to the wall—a crucifix of sorts for a lean, volcanic man who believes in winning.

Red with yellow lettering and black borders, they are attached to a wall inside Johnston Gymnasium where Davidson College rarely plays basketball anymore.

A bit corny in context, the two top lines on each banner say, "DAVIDSON basketball." The third line, rivaled in size only by "DAVIDSON," says "TOP TEN," followed by a year and a curious 6th or 8th or 10th.

Neither of the wire service polls distribute such banners. They are the product of a Charlotte sporting goods store and Charles G. (Lefty) Driesell—a man dedicated, one way or another, to making a basketball name for Davidson.

The stock that Lefty Driesell takes in top 10 polls would tickle Walter Camp. "It gets our name in the paper," he says. "Nobody knows you're alive unless you're in the Top 10. It means a lot to the individual player, to our recruiting program and it's good for our gate receipts."

The polls, you see, represent another way—possibly the best way—of presenting Davidson to the nation as a basketball power.

It has not been easy. A tiny Presbyterian school of 1,000 students whose finest athletic contribution had been a 6-foot center named Dean Rusk back in 1932. Davidson did not have much to present.

Not that it really cared, understand. A school that produces 15 Rhodes scholars and claims possibly the finest academic tradition in the South does not by nature concern itself with rebounds and double dribbles.

When Davidson President Dr. David Grier Martin interviewed a rather intense high school coach from Newport News, Va., in 1960, then, he was not thinking of creating a national powerhouse.

Billy Casper

A Lizard Special? "Yeah," he said, smiling, "looks like it just naturally takes to rocks and trees."

Included in my group were announcer Tom Harmon, entertainer Jan Murray and writer Mort Lund. All of us, it can be said, suffered which under the influence of Casper.

"It's like having Betty Crocker look over your shoulder while you're trying to bake a cake," said Lund, who shot 137.

An All-American football player who laughed at impending disaster, Harmon—it can be said—is not beneath cursing golf balls. No Illinois linebacker ever made Tom Harmon bellow like an incontinent putter makes him bellow. Still, an athlete's an athlete. 80.

Murray Olderman Analyzes the Jets

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Association

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Not since the righteous right arm of Norm Van Brocklin singly propelled the Philadelphia Eagles to a world professional football championship in 1960 has an artist of such dynamic thrust as Joe Namath meant so much to his team.

You say John Unitas? The Baltimore Colts, as a footnote to history, have not won any championships since 1959. Besides, they always had magnificent defense, and still do, as an adjunct to the skills of Johnny U., and they didn't even need Unitas to win this year.

But the New York Jets, riding the targetry of Namath to the Super Bowl in Miami are not a complete team—just as the Eagles weren't in 1960.

These Jets have an erratic running attack. Their defense is soft in the secondary and features a scrambling scrappiness, not the cohesive, sealing protection you usually expect in a winner.

The Jets have Namath. Slick, gutty, spectacular Joe Willie. A great arm, an intuitive flair for the big play, and even the fallibility of execution that produces up-and-down swells in his performance and makes for great suspenseful theater every time he plays.

Joe Namath is the story of the Super Bowl this year, because any chances the Jets have of winning are as securely wrapped around him as those tight layers of bandage on his hobbling knees. Just as Joe was the story of the Jets getting to Miami.

He got them there on one play that was the microcosm of their 1968 season.

The play is called "9-option" and it was called by Namath in the huddle with the ball on the Oakland Raider six-yard line, seven minutes and 54 seconds left on the clock in the fourth period of the AFL Championship Game, the Jets down by three points.

Joe had used up just 24 seconds, including the kickoff return, to get them there—a quick slant-type pass to split end George Sauer, a 52-yard over-the-shoulder heave to flanker Don Maynard.

Now on "9-option" he faked a handoff to fullback Matt Snell and rolled out to his left on skittery knees. The whole flow of the play was to the left. Halfback Bill Mathis, the primary receiver, cut diagonally left across the line. Sauer, lined up tight on the left side, took a step and cut out to the deep corner of the end zone. He was the secondary target. Hounded by a couple of Raiders, Namath couldn't find a passing lane to either receiver. He couldn't run it himself under the pressure. And he couldn't find tight end Pete Lammons, his third possible target.

So Joe wheeled and threw the ball in one motion. Low, hard and off-balance to the other side of the field, the toughest pass in the world. And flanker Maynard, who in Namath's words, "had been fooling around just to keep himself busy" on the right side of the field, cradled the ball for the winning touchdown which put the Jets in the Super Bowl.

It was pure Namath improvisation and a perfect example of individuality which makes both him and the Jets an exciting team.

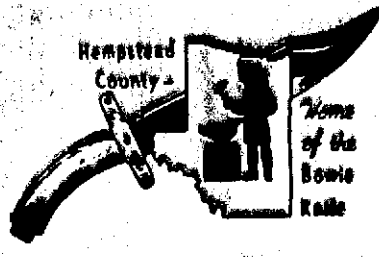

"From that position," said Mark Duncan, pro football's overseer of officials and an ex-coach, "only one quarterback out of five could have put enough on the ball to get it to the receiver." And only one quarterback in five would have the acuity to discard one receiver after another in split-second decision and come up with a far-out fourth choice as the winner.

His contribution pervades every facet of the team. Veteran Linebacker Larry Grantham, the original Jet, signed back in 1960, admits the function of his defensive unit is simply to keep the other team from hitting with the big bomb—"We don't win on defense."

"You feel," explains Larry, "when you got a guy like Joe on your ball club, you know he's going to get points for you. You see the guy getting hit and still coming up with those points. That gives you more inspiration than anything else you can have on a football team."

Inspiration alone might not be enough against a Baltimore Colt team with fine balance and a tremendous defense that provides its own motivation. But it isolates Joe Namath as the most exciting element of the third Super Bowl game.

Convict Fatally Stabbed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Commissioner of Correction Robert Sarver said this morning that two inmates had been stabbed, one fatally, at Cummins Prison Farm.

Sarver said George Brimhall, 32, was stabbed to death about 2 a.m. this morning. He said Jessie William Moore, 36, was stabbed in the neck about 30 minutes later. Moore was in satisfactory condition at a Dumas hospital.

Sarver said State Police and Lincoln County authorities were investigating the stabbings.

Sarver said Brimhall was serving five years for accessory to armed robbery from Mississippi County. He was sentenced April 13, 1968.

Sarver said Moore was serving a five-year term for burglary and grand larceny from Polk County. He was sentenced March 15, 1968.

Flu Masks Have Their Drawbacks

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — University of Florida researchers feel anti-flu masks may offer protection against campus coughs, but student volunteers will have to decide if its worth impeding eating, smoking, and kissing.

An experiment to determine whether masks can prevent the spread of Hong Kong flu and other winter viruses.

Specialists in the College of Medicine predict that by mid-January about two weeks after the 19,800 students assemble for the winter quarter beginning next Monday—about 30 per cent of the student body will be infected by flu.

The masks filter out airborne droplets of saliva, which may contain Hong Kong flu and other viruses.

Arkansas Per-Capita Tax Lower Than for Neighboring States

CHICAGO (AP) — Per capita state and local tax collections in Arkansas in 1967 were lower than in all her neighboring states except Mississippi, Commerce Clearing House reports.

Citing U.S. government information, CCH's report said that state and local taxes paid in Arkansas in 1967 amounted to $199 per person, an increase of $12 per person from 1966.

The 1966 to 1967 increase in state and local taxes paid resulted without an increase in the state tax rates. The collections increased principally because Arkansas' income and purchases of taxed goods increased. There were scattered increases in county, city and school district tax rates.

The CCH report said the 1966 to 1967 increase provided an increase of almost $23 million in total state and local tax collection in Arkansas.

Mississippi's 1966 collections were $184 per capita, $3 per capita behind Arkansas. The 1967 per capita collections of Mississippi's state and local taxes totaled $197, a gain of $1 on the Arkansas per capita figure.

Arkansas trailed all other neighboring states in per capita revenue collections from state and local taxes.

The 1967 per capita rate in Tennessee was $212, an increase of $19 per capita from Tennessee's 1966 per capita state and local tax revenue collections.

The Texas total for 1967 was $229 per capita, with Oklahoma's $258, Missouri's $260 and Louisiana's $261.

Considering the nation as a whole, only four Southern states had per capita state and local tax incomes of less than $200. They were Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina and Alabama. South Carolina's 1967 per capita collections were $197 same as Mississippi's.

Alabama had a 1967 per capita rate of $192 for the lowest total South Carolina was lowest in 1966 with a per capita rate of $181, but this increased by $16 in 1967 while Alabama's was increasing by only $10 from $182 in 1966.

The increase in Arkansas' per capita figure from 1966 to 1967, a $12 jump, compares to Mississippi's increase of $13, Missouri's $15, Louisiana's $16, Louisiana's $16, Oklahoma's $18, and Tennessee's $19.

Only Texas, with an increase of $9 from 1966 to 1967 in per capita collections from state and local taxes, had an increase smaller than Arkansas' among Arkansas' neighboring states.

Nationally, the lowest increase was Illinois' $2 (from $296 per capita in 1966 to $298 per capita in 1967), followed by $5 in Utah, $6 in Rhode Island and Ohio, $7 in Idaho and $8 in North Dakota.

The largest increase was $48 in New York from $410 in 1966 to $458 in 1967. New York had the highest per capita rate in the nation for both years. Wyoming had the next largest increase, $47, from $320 in 1966 to $366 in 1967 to rank the state sixth in the nation in per capita state and local tax collections.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A rare, first-edition printing of the Declaration of Independence has been discovered in a Philadelphia book store.

The copy was printed in straightline form by John Dunlap and dated July 4, 1776.

The document was discovered in a scrapbook at Leary's, a 132-year-old downtown book store which closed recently. Employees now are preparing to auction away its stock.

Gunman Robs Bank of $34,000

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—Police pressed their search today for a gunman who was last seen walking down the street after he robbed the Helena National Bank of $34,000 Friday afternoon.

Roadblocks were set up in Phillips and surrounding counties, but late Friday night no new developments were reported in the case.

Bank President J. J. White said the gunman claimed that the wife of one of the bank officials was being held hostage. He quoted the gunman as saying that the wife of John Moyer, a bank vice president, was being held by two compatriots and would be released on payment of $35,000.

White said Mrs. Moyer was not being held hostage and was at home at the time.

White said the man, who was not wearing a mask, walked into the bank at closing time and approached Moyer sitting at his desk in the bank lobby. White said the gunman told Moyer he wanted to "talk about" Moyer's wife in the board of directors' room and asked him to call in White and Johnson Anderson, the bank attorney.

The gunman told the group that Mrs. Moyer was being held and that he was demanded $35,000 for her release.

"I said I haven't got $35,000," White said, "and he pulled the gun and then said, 'you can get it.'"

White said Moyer then went into the bank with a sack given him by the gunman and filled it with cash from the money drawers of tellers' windows.

White said Moyer first went out alone into the lobby and he and the gunman went into the lobby later, standing together while Moyer gathered the money.

While leaving, White quoted the gunman as telling Moyer, "If you come out of the bank in an hour, something is going to happen to your wife."

Integration Resistance Increases

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Earl Willis, the state Education Department's consultant to local school boards, says that resistance to desegregation apparently stiffened during the 1968 presidential campaign, particularly in about 50 Arkansas school districts with a predominance of Negro students.

Willis expressed the opinion that this was in hope that desegregation guidelines might be softened with the election of Richard M. Nixon as president. "There was a feeling on the part of a number of school boards and administrators that the national election could soften those guidelines," whose deadlines were a product of administrative, rather than court, decisions, Willis said.

Guidelines issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare last March 1 were predicated on the assumption that the Supreme Court would declare the freedom-of-choice plans invalid where they did not result in desegregation, Willis said.

Southern Belle to Keep Running

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Southern Belle will continue its passenger runs between Kansas City and New Orleans.

The Interstate Commerce Commission approved Friday the petition of two railroads to withdraw their joint application to discontinue the train.

The Kansas City Southern Railway and the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway filed an application October 14 to discontinue their joint trains called the Southern Belle. An investigation was begun November 4 and hearings were to begin Monday. The railways had sought discontinuance as of March 14.

In their petition to withdraw their application, the railways gave no reason for their action.

'New' Is Key Word for 1969; Resolutions — or What Have You

By MARY ANITA LASETER

This week the keyword is New. It's a new year full of our new resolves to be a new person. In some respects that is good. We can all stand to be improved. But change for the sake of change is not necessarily for the better.

Don Quixote, the self-proclaimed hero of Cervantes' novel, is a fine example of a person who doesn't know who he is and tries so pathetically to be something he is not. From a harmless, old gentleman he tried to change to a dashing knight, but the results were ridiculous.

We may never fight a windmill thinking it is a giant or charge into a flock of sheep imagining it is an army, but most of us at one time or the other are apt to draw a veil of pretense over our real selves. Maybe it is for only a short time, when we are striving to "impress" someone. What we don't realize until later is that the impression would have been far better if we had been genuine. The trouble with being pretentious is that it isn't natural so a "slip" invariably occurs at the most inopportune time. A person who tries to "put on the dog" usually gets bitten, in other words.

Changing ourselves for the better is commendable, and we aren't saying otherwise. It is the attempt at hiding our true selves that we are condemning. An example is when some people are around a minister, they try to appear sanctimonious. However, the dictionary defines sanctimonious as "hypocritically devout," which is exactly what the pretender would be.

On the other hand, there is such a thing as "turning over a new leaf" and a genuine effort at self-improvement. We all need that, but it shouldn't be a first-day-of-the-year vow from which we divorce ourselves the rest of the year.

Wasn't it Hamlet who said, "This above all; to thine own self be true"? Shakespeare certainly knew about human frailty.

Robert Louis Stevenson did, too, for he expressed a thought that could well be our desire for 1969: "To be what we are and to become what we are capable of becoming is the only end in life."

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Deaths caused by influenza and pneumonia continued to rise for the fourth consecutive week of a nationwide epidemic of Hong Kong flu, the National Communicable Disease Center reported today.

However, there are indications that the epidemic will level off within the next week or two, a spokesman said.

For the week ending Dec. 28, the number of deaths reported from 122 cities stands at 1,168. This compared with an expected death toll of 516, the NCDC reported.

During the past week, there were indications that the epidemic of Hong Kong flu is easing in major cities of the East. A spokesman for the NCDC said excess influenza-pneumonia deaths have been reported in every geographic region except for the east south central portion and the west south central area.

Widespread occurrence of Hong Kong flu has been reported in 23 states, with regional outbreaks in 10 states and isolated outbreaks in 14 states.

The list of documented Hong Kong flu cases now includes Hawaii, Louisiana and Mississippi, the NCDC reported.

Return of Fugitive Delayed

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Magistrate Orville Kerry Thursday continued until Jan. 16 a case involving Arkansas' efforts to have Guthrie Edward Jones returned to the state.

The new date was set after hearing a deputy sheriff tell of trying to trace a warrant on which Arkansas is attempting to obtain the return of Jones, 31, to Cummins Prison Farm. Jones gave Springfield authorities a Baltimore, Md., home address.

Jones, who says he served 15 months of a 15-year term for burglary, maintains he was given an emergency furlough to go to Oklahoma for a funeral. He said he signed a stipulation that he would waive extradition if he failed to return and was discovered in a state other than Oklahoma, but he contends this stipulation was unconstitutional.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Roy Overturn related that the governor's office in Jefferson City told of returning the paper to Arkansas Dec. 9 for an affidavit involving a correction and a judge's signature. Overturn received a telephone call from Richard J. Munch, records supervisor at Cummins, in which it was reported some mixup in the prosecutor's office in Jefferson County resulted in failure to get the paper into the mail, but that it was being mailed Thursday.

Viet Cong Area Sifted for Captives

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces have intensified sweeps in the U Minh Forest in hopes of finding more U.S. and South Vietnamese prisoners held deep in the Viet Cong sanctuary that compares to Florida's Everglades.

So far one American and six Vietnamese have been rescued. South Vietnamese headquarters said today five government soldiers were found Friday in a small Viet Cong prison camp of bamboo and thatched huts. Last week U.S. Special Forces Maj. James Rowe and a South Vietnamese officer took advantage of an allied military sweep in the forest to break free after five years of captivity.

Spokesmen said the South Vietnamese 21st Division, supported by U.S. helicopters and naval patrol craft, has been making "intensified probes" in the U Minh Forest for more than a month.

The forest lies along Vietnam's southwest coast in the Mekong Delta on the Gulf of Siam. It covers an area about the size of Florida's Everglades and has been an enemy sanctuary since the days of the war against the French.

In addition to the seven prisoners, operations in the forest have turned up dozens of Viet Cong supply depots containing thousands of rounds of small arms ammunition and mortar shells.

A South Vietnamese battalion sweeping the northern fringes of the forest turned up another arms cache today the third significant find in three days. It contained 39 machine-guns, bazookas and mortars and 48 rifles, enough heavy weapons for a main force battalion.

The South Vietnamese also reported a successful ambush early today in the upper delta, about 30 miles south of Saigon. Government soldiers surprised an enemy band moving by sampans, killed 25 and captured 19 carbines and submachineguns left behind by the fleeing survivors.

The allies hope to weaken the Viet Cong's political control in the delta region, spokesmen said, by steadily chipping away at the enemy's supplies in the U Minh Forest coupled with intensified patrolling of canals and waterways to the north and west.

Allied and South Vietnamese headquarters reported more than 100 military sweeps similar to the delta push are in progress, but none have resulted in significant contact with the enemy.

Since the bombing of North Vietnam was halted Nov. 1, the pattern of the war has been scattered skirmishes, enemy shellings and spoiling raids by American warplanes.

The U.S. Command today reported two more incidents in the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone, where there have been increasing signs of a North Vietnamese buildup.

Arsenic in Gangland's Victim

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Enough arsenic "to kill a mule" has been found in the remains of Louis Saperstein, a former insurance broker who survived a gangland style shooting in 1958, according to the state medical examiner's office.

The medical examiner's office Thursday reported the results of an autopsy performed after the body was exhumed at the order of Dr. Edwin Albano, state medical examiner.

The exhumation was reportedly ordered because of several notes Saperstein left in which he told his family to notify police in the event of his sudden death.

The 63-year-old Saperstein died in Orange Memorial Hospital Nov. 29 of what was described at the time as acute gastroenteritis.

In March 1958, Saperstein was shot and critically wounded while seated in a parked car in Newark. The shooting was never solved.

Guyana Sees Threat by Brazil

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Two planeloads of troops landed at an airstrip in southwest Guyana near the Brazilian border Thursday night and began moving toward the Amerindian cattle town of Lethem, 300 miles south of Georgetown, to put down an outbreak of disorder.

Some reports said the Amerindians—called that to distinguish them from the East Indians who are Guyana's largest ethnic group—are trying to secede and form an independent state backed by Brazil. The Amerindians resent domination by the Negroes and East Indians of northern Guyana, but government officials doubled Brazil would back a secessionist movement.

The troops were flown south following incidents in the Rupununi area in which two policemen were shot, one fatally, a government radio transmitter seized and obstacles placed on airstrips to prevent planes from landing.
